PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT INITIATIVE: EMPOWERING WOMEN, STRENGTHENING FAMILIES, TRANSFORMING COMMUNITIES!

Salute to a Trailblazer:

The Women's Empowerment Initiative (WEI) has been in the forefront in designing and delivering opportunities for educational, economic and social stability to urban Philadelphians. The impetus of these offerings is due in large part to the innovative genius and tireless commitment of WEI President Wanda Tanner-McNeill.

WEI GED: Access to Success

The Women's Empowerment Initiative began offering GED instruction in the fall of 2007; since that time over 40 individuals, primarily women, have received their high school diploma. This experience of accomplishment has motivated many graduates to pursue further education through Community College of Philadelphia.

The most recent graduation celebration took place on June 25th as we celebrated the 26 individuals who received their diplomas. Many family members, friends, political and presbytery luminaries were in attendance, including Acting General Presbyter Al DerMosesian. The speaker was Rev. Dr. Valeria Harvell, pastor of Temple Church and professor of African American Studies at Penn State. Dr. Harvell challenged the graduates to view their education as a passport to a better future for themselves and their families. [See the full article and pictures of the GED celebration on the Presbytery of Philadelphia website: www.presbyphl.org.]

On page 2, we extend an invitation for congregations and individuals to share in the WEI GED ministry and to join WEI in expanding the impact of WEI throughout Philadelphia.

A Glimpse of the Future!

"God and Nature first made us what we are, and then out of our own creative genius we make ourselves what we want to be. ... [So] "let the sky and God be our limit, and Eternity our measurement. There is no height to which we cannot climb using the active intelligence of our own minds."

[Marcus Garvey: Life and Lessons, ed. Robert Hill and Barbra Bair.]

Presbyterian Workforce Training and Placement Initiative (PWTPI)

WEI employs a total systems, holistic approach in all ministry components – job training and employment, education, fiscal literacy and homeownership counseling. We recognize that all of these tools are prerequisites for achieving long-term self-sufficiency and stability. The recently launched Presbyterian Workforce Training and Placement Initiative (PWTPI) is one such offering. The ultimate goal of PWTPI is to make a difference in the lives of unemployed and under-employed Philadelphians, particularly women in West Philadelphia. PWTPI focal points are (1) training, (2) workforce readiness, (3) workforce placement, and (4) employment retention.

The impetus for achieving these outcomes is aggressive pursuit of business relationships with leading corporate and organizational entities within greater Philadelphia. To-date, PWTPI has secured agreements for employment of qualified PWTPI trainees with CVS/Caremark, Head Start Learning Tree Centers, and New Life Services.

Learn more at the WEI website: www.philawei.org. Perhaps you'll be inspired to become a mentor or to champion access to corporate employment agreements.
